Icom F5061 Programming Software Download [HOT]

whilst you are free to use the icom f5061 programming software provided by radiotronics to configure your radio(s), you will not own the software. we cannot offer technical support for installing software, com port issues, cable issues, driver issues, programming or updating the firmware of your two way radio(s). dvap programming software downloads again, some of you may not be familiar with the dvap programming software. the dvap software is a virtual diode that you can add to your receiver and link to your favorite reflectors for voice or data. there's a lot of functions that can be added to a dvap. the most basic includes a frequency select function for selecting your favorite repeater frequency. you can add a number of favorite repeaters, each with their own set of functions. the dvap uses the echo test command to assure that you can link to the repeater, and the echo test feature will ping the repeater when its linked. the e, s, u, and link commands are also included for you to issue to your favorite repeaters. you can choose from the eight standard functions, or the six dtmf functions for voice repeaters, and the four dtmf functions for your favorite data repeaters. morse code transmitters are invaluable on dstar repeaters. with the exception of the vsim software, there is not an easy way to transmit morse code on your icom as there is on most other devices. the deicticmorsecoder software allows you to transmit morse code on the icom via your dstar repeater, using a vfo on your transmitter. it should work on virtually any icom with a cw transceiver built in.
